

CERA Membership Drive

Toxic chemicals contaminate our air, soil, and water. They're in our bodies and our babies. The worst pollution problems usually occur in communities of color and low-income neighborhoods. The California Environmental Rights Alliance is dedicated to eliminating toxic chemical pollution in your community.

We help community members fight for their environmental rights. In 2003, we successfully advocated for new policies that address core problems in California's most heavily polluted communities. We built a foundation for achieving our goals of raising public awareness, holding government agencies accountable, and building a powerful coalition of environmental health and justice advocates in California.

We have initiated a membership campaign to build upon our achievements. You can show your support for environmental health and justice by joining the California Environmental Rights Alliance today. Membership is free, although we ask that you include a tax-deductible gift when you join, large or small – it all helps.

Please contact me at (310) 536-8237 or jlyou@EnviroRights.org, or visit our web site at www.EnviroRights.org, if you need more information.

Thank you for your support,

Joseph K. Lyou, Ph.D.
Executive Director
